My name is Vani Hari, but I'm now better known as "The Food Babe." For most of my life, I ate anything I wanted. I was a candy addict, drank soda, never ate green vegetables, frequented fast-food restaurants and ate an abundance of processed food. As a successful management consultant, I was either in the office eating whatever take-out was available, or I was on the road eating every meal out.

Although this lifestyle allowed me to fit in with my peers and work crazy hours, it also took a huge toll on my body and I became very ill. Over the holiday season over ten years ago, I found myself in a hospital bed. I was sick, overweight, and I was ready to change! I made a personal promise that from that point on that I was going to make health my #1 priority.

FoodBabe.com was born in April 2011, from my years of learning, investigating and researching how to live a healthy lifestyle in this overly processed world. As I learned more about the habits needed for a healthy lifestyle and what dangerous ingredients to avoid, my friends and family begged me to start a blog in order to share everything I had uncovered.

FoodBabe.com has grown and inspired individuals who are seeking to lead healthier lives and rid our food system of harmful ingredients. It is through the help of the entire Food Babe Army that the investigations and petitions on FoodBabe.com have been able to influence some of the largest food corporations to change, including Kraft, Chick-fil-A, Chipotle, Subway, Anheuser-Busch, and Starbucks.

In this special report, I give you the most crucial information you need to make health YOUR #1 priority.

The grocery store aisles are filled with thousands of products - some of which can be healthy options - while others can be straight up landmines. This report provides an easy to understand, step-by-step plan to help you navigate your way through any grocery store like a pro.

First, I show you why the ingredients in your food are of utmost importance. I challenge you to take a look at what's really in your favorite foods (and to make a change if needed). I list out specifically which additives to avoid in a product - and I don't leave you hanging...

We have dissected all of the top grocery store chains in every region of the U.S.

Aisle by aisle we looked through thousands of products to find out just how healthy shopping at big box retailers can be. I show you EXACTLY what I'd buy at every popular grocery store chain in America, listed out by brand and section.

You will also find the Food Babe Pantry List with the brands that I personally like to keep in my pantry. This is where to go for easy meals on the fly, so you don't have to rely on trips to local fast food chains such as McDonald's or Burger King.

Taking your health into your own hands can be liberating and rewarding and we want to make that as easy as possible. We hope you enjoy this report and find it to be a great resource on your path to healthy eating.

Xo,

Vani

Are Your Favorite Foods Safe From Harmful Additives?

Overall, Americans believe that everything allowed in our food has been proven safe to eat.

Many assume that the FDA is ensuring the safety of all ingredients in processed food. They also assume that if food additives are found to be dangerous to human health, they will be removed from the food supply.

This is not necessarily the case.

The reality is that many of the food additives that the FDA deems safe, have not been studied long term and no one has studied the combinations and cumulative effects of all the food additives we are eating.

In fact, the FDA is sometimes not even aware that a new additive has been introduced into our food.

That's because new food additives are often approved by the manufacturer themselves, and not by the FDA. While there are some food additives that the FDA has approved before they hit the shelves, this has proven to be a burdensome process. The FDA claims that so as not to waste government resources, they will just let the manufacturer decide whether an ingredient is safe to eat or not.

The food industry has yet to justify the questionable additives they are adding to our food. They also haven't helped us understand why they have voluntarily taken out certain controversial food additives for people in other countries but not us here in the United States. These food-like substances are made from chemicals that are cheap, provide zero nutritional value and improve the bottom line of food manufacturers.

That's why it's important to learn more about what you are eating and where it comes from.

To get started, let's take a look at some of your favorite foods. Check the ingredient list on your food to see if it contains any of the additives listed in the "Food Additive Hit List" on the next page.

Ask Yourself These 3 Simple Questions Before You Eat

QUESTION #1: WHAT ARE THE INGREDIENTS?

Know what is in your food. For starters, you must read ingredient labels. If the food contains any additives or preservatives, ask yourself why they are used and whether they're really necessary. If you don't know what an ingredient or additive is or how it can affect your health, put the product back and look for a product made with real food instead.

The additives listed on page 9 are the most popular ingredients to avoid in processed food because they are associated with health issues. If a product contains any of the additives in this "Food Additive Hit List", try finding an alternative product or make it at home from scratch.

QUESTION #2: ARE THESE INGREDIENTS NUTRITIOUS?

Marketing terms like "diet," "light," "free," "natural," and "healthy" are blazoned on food packages that are filled with controversial additives that provide the body with zero nutrition. What kind of viable nutrition does your body get when you nosh on Yellow #5, carrageenan, and natural flavors? The answer is none.

An easy way to answer this question is to clarify whether the food is "whole" or "processed." A food that is "whole" simply means a food as found in nature. Whole foods are typically "one-ingredient foods" and they don't contain any preservatives, dyes, or additives. Whole food is real food: real meat, real broccoli, real apples.

QUESTION #3: WHERE DO THESE INGREDIENTS COME FROM?

When you shop for food, or dine out, you deserve to know where that food comes from.

There are ways you can trace your food back to its source. Look at its PLU (price look-up) number. A 9 at the beginning of a five-digit sequence indicates the produce is organically grown. This produce is generally marked as “organic” in the store. A four-digit code beginning with a 3 or 4 means it was conventionally grown and may be GMO if it’s a GMO crop.

As for animal proteins, it’s best to avoid meat from animals raised on conventional factory farms (which are notorious for using hormones and other growth-promoting drugs, while feeding the animals antibiotics and GMO feed in cramped and unsanitary conditions). Look for meat that is certified organic and with any of these labels: Grass Fed and Finished, Animal Welfare Approved, Certified Humane, and Pasture-Raised Poultry.

On the next few pages, I’ll show you specifically how to navigate the aisles in the grocery store to make the best choices.

How To Navigate The Aisles

Dairy And Egg Aisle

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE DAIRY AISLE

1.	Were the cows or chickens fed anything other than grass including grains, meat by-products, etc?
2.	Were they ever given synthetic hormones or antibiotics?
3.	Were the chickens caged or confined?

Top Choice: Organic Grass Fed (Free of hormones, antibiotics, GMOs, pesticides, synthetic fertilizer and 100% grass fed).

Runner Up: Organic (All of the above except not 100 % grass fed, which could mean grain finished).

Yogurt	Make sure to avoid added sugars, thickeners, artificial colors and flavors and those that contain fruit or candy already mixed in. Instead choose a plain flavor and add your own fruit or nuts.
Cheese	Avoid anti-caking additives such as cellulose. Choose un-shredded organic and raw cheese or an unpasteurized product if you can find it.
Butter	Avoid sprays and GMO butter alternatives. Choose organic based dairy products.
Eggs	Avoid liquid, pre-cooked or powdered eggs. Choose free range, pasture raised and organic. Don't be fooled by "cage free", "vegetarian fed", "all-natural", "farm fresh" or "no added hormones".

Meat/Poultry Aisle:

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE MEAT/POULTRY AISLE

1.	Were the animals fed anything other than grass?
2.	Was the meat raised with antibiotics?
3.	Was the meat injected with hormones or steroids?
4.	Were the chickens caged? Was the meat processed humanely?

Top Choice: Organic Grass Fed and Finished. Animal Welfare Approved or Certified Humane. Organic Free Range and Pasture Raised Poultry.

Runner Up: Grass Fed and Finished. No added hormones or antibiotics.

Seafood Aisle:

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE SEAFOOD AISLE

1.	Was the fish farm raised? If so, what were their conditions?
2.	Is the fish rated high in mercury or other heavy metals?
3.	Was the fish dyed with any artificial colors?
4.	Are there any added sugars or refined sweeteners?

Top Choice: Wild Caught Fish including: Salmon, Trout, Haddock, Mackerel, Oysters, King Crab, Catfish, and Mussels. If using canned tuna look for wild caught, water packed, BPA free, "pole & line" or "troll-caught". Make sure there isn't added salt, soy or vegetable broth.

Most Polluted Countries for Fish: China, Indonesia, Vietnam, Thailand, Philippines. Choose locally sourced fish if possible within the US or areas that are not highly polluted.

Produce Aisle:

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE PRODUCE AISLE

1.	If possible, is the produce from a local source or sourced within the US?
2.	Is the produce organic? If not, is the fruit/vegetable part of the Dirty Dozen?*

Top Choice: Local and Organic, BPA Free can if using canned. If choosing fermented make sure there are not added sugars.

Runner Up: Organic when possible.

*Please refer to the below lists created by the Environmental Working Group for a guide to pesticide use in produce.

*Dirty Dozen List:

Apples
Strawberries
Grapes
Celery
Cherries
Peaches
Pears
Spinach
Sweet Bell Peppers
Imported Nectarines

Potatoes
Hot Peppers

Clean 15 List:

Onion
Asparagus
Mango
Papaya (high probability of containing GMO's)
Kiwi
Eggplant
Grapefruit
Cantaloupe
Cauliflower
Sweet Potato

Healthy Tips: Always wash your produce before using. This can be done by rinsing with filtered water. Also when you can find local, organic produce remember to buy in bulk and freeze the leftovers for use later in the year when the produce may not be in season.

Bread/Cereal/Grain Aisle:

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE BREAD/CEREAL/GRAIN AISLE

1.	Does the cereal contain refined grains such as white flour, added refined sugars, artificial flavors and colors or synthetic vitamins? Does the cereal contain dough conditioners?
2.	Does the bread contain refined grains, added sugars, dough conditioners, artificial colors and preservatives, trans fats or MSG?

Top Choice: Cereals, breads, pasta or grains that are organic and made with sprouted grains. Also look for alternative grains loaded with nutrients such as buckwheat, quinoa, flax or amaranth.

Runner Up: Organic and whole wheat or made with ancient grains.

THE RIGHT QUESTIONS TO ASK IN THE CONDIMENT AISLE

1.	Are there any added sugars or artificial colors or flavors?

2.	Is it made with refined white flour and added refined sugars?

Cheat Sheet for Reading Meat and Dairy Labels:

ORGANIC

Organic meat and dairy products provides the guarantee that animals were not fed using animal by-products or given antibiotics or hormones. If an organically raised animal does become sick and is given antibiotics it no longer qualifies for the organic label.

GRASS FED vs. 100% GRASS FED or GRASS FED ONLY

Grassfed means that the animal ate grass for part of its life, but not its whole life. This means the animals could have been given GMO grains, animal by-products or animal protein. If a product lists grass fed only and not organic there are also no guarantees that antibiotics or growth hormones were not used.

100% Grass fed means the animals should have been fed only grass or other non-grain vegetation for their entire life without using grains or animal by-products.

FREE-RANGE

This label tells us that the animals have had access to the outdoors even though they may never actually go outdoors. This label does not indicate if antibiotics were used.

NO ANTIBIOTICS ADDED or RAISED WITHOUT ANTIBIOTICS

This label tells us that the animals have not been fed antibiotics throughout their life. It has no indication on how humanely the animals were raised or what they were fed.

ALL-NATURAL

The USDA states a “natural” animal product as one that does not contain additives, preservatives or colors. This label does not tell us if there have been injections to the meat or if the animals were given antibiotics, hormones or what they were fed.

CERTIFIED HUMANE RAISED

This label tells us that the producer has met the standards of Humane Farm Animal Care. HFAC has free range requirements for the products they verify.

Note: In my book The Food Babe Way, there is an in-depth section that goes into other labels and what to watch out for!

Cheat Sheet for Reading Pantry Item Labels:

ALL-NATURAL

The FDA does not have a very clear definition for this label so there is room for interpretation by food companies. The label does tell us that the product can't contain added colors, artificial flavors, or synthetic ingredients but it can contain preservatives and GMOs. In some cases food companies can say that certain ingredients come from a natural product such as high fructose corn syrup derived from corn. Don't be duped!

FORTIFIED OR ENRICHED

Both of these terms mean that nutrients have been added back into the product. This is often from over processing in which the product had been stripped of any nutritional value. The key to watch out for is whether the nutrients or vitamins added back into the product are from synthetic sources.

MULTIGRAIN/WHOLE GRAIN

When looking for healthy bread or snacks look for the words whole grain or 100% whole wheat instead. Labels that state "made with whole grains" or multigrain can still contain processed white flour. Whole grains provide more fiber than their over-processed alternatives. It is also important to check for added coloring as you don't want to be duped by the color of the bread or snack item as being natural.

NO SUGAR ADDED OR SUGAR FREE

This label does not account for natural sugar or added ingredients which can break down into sugar. Sugar free products should have less than 0.5 grams per serving. These products can contain sugar alcohols such as mannitol, xylitol, or sorbitol and artificial sweeteners such as aspartame and sucralose which I would suggest avoiding.

FAT FREE OR LOW FAT

This label is very misleading as these products can contain just as many calories as their original versions. These products typically have more sugar along with added fillers and thickeners to replace the fat that was removed. This label also does not tell us about the quality of the ingredients or what was added to maintain the flavor.

MADE WITH REAL FRUIT

This label claims to be made with real fruit but often products contain very little or no fruit at all. While food companies list the amount of nutrients the products contains, the percentage of actual fruit doesn't have to be listed.

ZERO TRANS FAT

This statement doesn't always mean there are no trans fats in the product. Even if the label states "zero trans fats" one serving could still contain up to 0.5 grams by law. Small amounts of these fats can add up quickly. Food companies will add trans fats to products to increase the flavor and shelf life. This is why chips, sweets and other products can stay on the grocery store shelves for years. The best way to avoid trans fats is to read the ingredient list. Watch out for anything that lists "partially hydrogenated" fats or shortening.

Top 5 Weight Loss Foods and Shopping Strategies

Top 5 Weight Loss Shopping Strategies

1. A calorie is not a calorie and are not created equal. You will find some calories are extremely addicting or fattening while some help to heal the body and increase metabolism. Every food you eat provides the body with information that will dictate how that calorie is used, whether it will be beneficial or harmful. Choose your calories wisely to promote a healthy body and the desired weight loss.
2. Shop on the perimeter of the store. This strategy is used to promote the increase of fresh produce and decrease the consumption of over processed foods. There are some exceptions to this rule including spices, beans, etc. The key is to increase your intake of REAL foods.
3. Don't purchase or bring junk food into the house and you won't be tempted to eat it.
4. Drink plenty of fluids including purified water, tea, green juice and coconut water. Try to drink at least eight 8 ounce glasses of water each day.
5. Keep busy and moving whether it be walking, yoga or a style of exercise that works for you.

Top 5 Weight Loss Foods

1. Dandelion Tea - This is a great drink to use in place of high calorie beverages such as juice or soda. Dandelion tea can be used to reduce water weight before a big day or event and keep your stomach feeling flat!
2. Leafy Greens - Dark, leafy greens are very nutrient dense and full of antioxidants that are beneficial to weight loss.
3. Organic Nuts and Seeds - Good healthy fats keep you satisfied so you don't overindulge in sweets or other fattening foods.
4. Coconut Oil - Coconut oil is filled with medium chain saturated fatty acids that boost metabolism and don't end up stored as fat as easily as long chain fatty acids.
5. Organic Beans - Beans are a great source of protein, fiber and water content. The fiber and water content will help you feel full faster which will help to cut down on the amount of food needed.

Should You Take Health Supplements?

The primary reason to take a supplement is to provide your body with nutrients that are not already abundant in your normal diet. Ironically however... it's easy to sabotage your health with supplements if you're not careful. Look for supplements that are...

USDA Certified Organic

Non-GMO

Low In Heavy Metals

There are toxins in many products and in our environment that can lead to disease. Try to surround yourself and your family with the purest, most natural products (including supplements). Look for those that are certified and tested to be as pure as possible.

Scrutinize The "Other Ingredients" In Supplements...

Many supplements contain inactive and "other ingredients" that you wouldn't normally put into your body, such as artificial dyes and flavors. Some of these "other ingredients" are necessary - such as a binder to keep a tablet from falling apart - so that's why it is important to know what these substances are and how they could affect you.

Five Common Ingredients To Avoid In Supplements:

- 1) Artificial Dyes (such as Blue #1 and Red #40) - Solely used to change the appearance of a product, but has no nutritional value. These dyes are derived from petroleum and may be contaminated with carcinogens.
- 2) Natural Flavors - These are made in a lab from a proprietary mixture of chemicals derived from anything in nature. Each flavor may contain up to 100 ingredients, including “synthetic chemicals such as the solvent propylene glycol or the preservative BHA” as well as GMO-derived ingredients (unless organic or Non-GMO Project verified).
- 3) Carrageenan - Linked to digestive problems and intestinal inflammation. It may also be contaminated with “degraded carrageenan”, which is linked to cancer.
- 4) Sodium Benzoate - This preservative, when combined with ascorbic acid (vitamin C), produces benzene - a known carcinogen.
- 5) Artificial Sweeteners - Although they have no calories, these have been shown to stimulate your appetite, increase sugar cravings, and promote fat storage and weight gain.

Why I launched my own food company, Truvani

Over the last few years, the Food Babe Army has accomplished a lot... We have influenced Chick-fil-A, Chipotle, Kraft, General Mills, Subway, Panera Bread, and many other big food companies into changing for the better...

But here's the truth: Big companies don't change fast enough. And most companies don't value our health over profits.

Big Food uses deceptive marketing practices to trick their customers into thinking their food is something that it's not. They lobby against transparent ingredient labeling. They treat American customers differently than their European counterparts. And this is not okay.

Every time we got one company to change, there were another 10,000 companies doing the wrong thing. It's like playing a game of whack-a-mole that never ended. So, I decided to take matters into my own hands, and launched my company Truvani, a company that will produce a complete line of clean products...

We believe in real food without added chemicals. Products without toxins. Labels without lies. We will be transparent with our ingredient sourcing and pick the best ingredients available. Always.

And, we never want outside money to try and "dictate" what we include in our products. That is why we have started out slowly and do not have outside investors.

If you want to boycott Big Food, I'm making it easier for you. I've told you for years that voting with your dollars is one of the most important things you can do to change the food system. Now, I am finally able to create the healthy products that I always wanted to see in stores, not just for myself – but for you too.

How To Ask Your Store To Carry More Options

The right questions to ask your grocery store manager...

Do you accept special orders for specific products that I am looking for? If so, what is the procedure for me to request an item?

How many requests do you need before you will consider carrying a new item on the shelves?

Do you source any produce from local farms who are using sustainable farming practices, provide organic produce or use safe practices?

Do you list the country of origin for all seafood that you carry?

Follow up:

- Call the store manager to inquire whether they received your letter and if there are any actions that can be taken.
- Have everyone you know bring in the same letter and approach the manager with the same concerns.
- If there doesn't seem to be a response or action, narrow your list down to the top three most important products and work from there.
- Never give up and continue to spread the word and your knowledge to those around you. With persistence we can create change.

It's time to look at grocery shopping and our local stores in a new light. We should be interviewing them along with food companies to see if they match what we're looking for in the foods we choose to put in our body. If they don't match up then we need to voice our concerns, educate those around us and make suggestions to improve the landscape of healthy food. It should be the consumer who has a strong voice in not allowing companies to get away with putting artificial ingredients, chemicals and dyes in the food we take home to ourselves and our family.

Dear _____, (Name of Store Manager)

I am writing to you as one of your regular customers to thank you for the current selection of certified organic and healthy products that are currently on the shelves. Being that certified organic and non-GMO products are becoming a larger share of the market and a growing request by many people such as myself, I would like to ask you to expand this selection. More and more people are likely to shop where there is a greater variety of healthy alternatives. Below is a quick list of the most important products that people eat on a daily basis. It is crucial that this store is a leader in promoting change and offering healthier options in these categories. I am also aware that an increasing amount of retailers across the country are open to special orders for new products and if requested often enough these products can find a place on the shelves. Thank you for being open to these requests and providing the real food we all need to create a change towards a better future.

Here are the most important areas we can provide clean, healthy food and some suggested options for great brands that are found all over the country at local grocery stores just like yours!

- Milk – Organic Valley Grassmilk, Traderspoint Creamery
- Chicken/Beef – White Oak, Organic Prairie, Jone's Creek, Thousand Hills, Hearst Ranch
- Bread – Ezekiel, Food For Life, Dave's Killer Bread (non frozen)
- Yogurt – Maple Hill Creamery, Traderspoint Creamery, Nancy's Greek, Kalona Organic
- Juice – Suja, Matt's Organic, Lakewood Organic
- Cereal – Ezekiel, Two Moms in the Raw
- Eggs – Vital Farms, The Country Hen, Organic Valley Organic Brown Eggs
- Oil – Nutiva Coconut Oil, Papa Vince Extra Virgin Olive Oil, Kasandrinos Extra Virgin Olive Oil
- Produce - Local and Organic (Next Best: Frozen Veggies – Woodstock Organic)
- Sugar - Nutiva Coconut Sugar, Raw Pure Honey, Organic Sweet Leaf Stevia

Bonus! Snacks and Sweets – Late July Chips, Mary's Gone Crackers or Pretzels, 479 Popcorn, Three Twins Ice Cream, Coconut Bliss Ice Cream, Madhava Sprouted Brownie or Cookie Mix

I want to thank you for taking the time to address my concerns and for taking a step in the right direction to provide safe, clean food for myself and my family, while supporting local producers and a healthier planet.

Sincerely,

Name:

FEEDING YOU LIES (available for pre-order now!)

Get it at your local bookstore or at Barnes & Noble or Amazon.

In FEEDING YOU LIES I expose the shameless lies we are being fed about our food by the very people we should be able to trust for health information... lies about its nutrient value, effects on our health, label information, and even the very science on which we make our food choices. It's investigative, hard-hitting, and scandalous.

Here's what it covers:

- How scientific research about our food is manipulated by food company funded experts
- Never before seen emails revealing who's privately on the take from the food and chemical industries and what they are being paid to do
- How to spot fake news generated by Big Food
- The tricks food companies use to make their food addictive
- Deciphering why labels like "all natural" and "non-GMO" aren't as they seem and how to identify the healthiest food
- Food marketing hoaxes that persuade us into buying junk food disguised as health food
- The "Three Question Detox" technique that will improve every decision you make about food
- An easy-to-follow "48-Hour Toxin Takedown" to avoid the chemical onslaught – and get healthy in the process.
